PROGRESS REPORTS TO THE NATIONAL SECURITY COUNCIL BY THE COORDINATING AGENCIES FOR APPROVED NATIONAL SECURITY POLICIES

Noted the President's directive that Progress Reports on approved national security policies by the coordinating agency designated by the President, should normally be transmitted to the National Security Council at yearly intervals, unless the coordinating agency considers that there are significant developments affecting the policy or wishes to recommend a review of policy. In addition, it is understood that any Council Member or Adviser, or the NSC Planning Board, may recommend a review of policy whenever developments are believed to justify it.
